

Hopping on the moon!

AFTER FIRST SETTING up their television camera, far left, and the American flag, astronauts Alan Shepard and Edgar Mitchell go about the business of exploring the moon today and gathering rock and dust samples.

In this artists conception, Shepard is pulling the Modular Equipment Transporter, containing cameras, lunar sampling bags and tools. Mitchell is carrying the Apollo Lunar Surface Experiment Package.

'Bullseye' landing for Apollo astronauts

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI)—Alan B. Shepard and Edgar D. Mitchell outsmarted a balky computer for a bullseye landing today, bounded through sticky moon dust to set up a science lab, then crawled back into their lunar lander.

They unfurled Old Glory and hopped like kangaroos near the silver and gold Apollo 14 moonship Antares, and sent back to Earth the first color television shots of the moon. Their dramatic moon landing was America's third. "It's been a long way, but we're here," said Shepard, first U.S. man in space a decade ago, as he stepped off a ladder and became the fifth man on the moon.

Mitchell jumped to the rough, crater-pocked surface of Fra Mauro Valley five minutes later. "It's great to be coming down," he said. The third Apollo 14 crewman orbited the moon and spotted the lunar lander from about 70 miles above the surface.

Shepard and Mitchell spent most of their nearly five hour walk setting up scientific experiments which began beaming information on the moon and the solar wind back to earth. They will make another long walk Saturday during their 33½ hours moon visit.

"Nothing like being up to your armpits in lunar dust," Shepard joked as they pulled a rickshaw-like cart full of equipment across the valley in the lunar foothills. "Everything is going to be full of dust before long."

Ground controllers radioed to the moonwalkers the congratulations of President Nixon. Like millions of people all over the world, he said, he is an astronaut watcher today. "I wish the entire Apollo team well... Godspeed," Nixon said, and invited the astronauts and their families to the White House for dinner upon their return and to Camp David for a weekend.

Shepard, the old pro of U.S. astronauts—grounded for six years by ear trouble—walked with a slow, cautious gait at first. But soon Shepard and Mitchell were hopping over the surface "like kangaroos" on man's first excursion into the hilly uplands that scientists believe may hold the key to the secrets of the moon's creation.

They were deploying a $25 million, atomic-powered scientific observatory on the gentle slope near the Antares after planting the Stars and Stripes. They had to move the flag several times so it would show better on the vivid color telecast.

Shepard, 47, and Mitchell, 40, the third team of American astronauts to reach the moon, bounded around taking each other's pictures during the flag-raising ceremony. The third member of the Apollo 14 crew, Stuart A. Roosa, 37, orbited the moon alone in the command ship Kitty Hawk during the moonwalk. He maneuvered his ship to a position where he could see the Fra Mauro area and the shadow cast by the lunar lander.

The successful landing erased the stigma of Apollo 13, which had been headed for the same site when an oxygen-tank explosion in space forced the astronauts to return home last April. Shepard flew Antares to a near-perfect landing between two rugged ridges, setting down in a cloud of dust only 130 feet from the target—the most precise landing yet of the Apollo missions.

The accurate landing—payoff of the trouble-plagued $400 million mission—was made with a makeshift computer control procedure radioed to the astronauts at the last moment. Shepard and Mitchell discovered a faulty abort switch two hours before landing.

They took manual control of Antares shortly after the firing of its big descent engine to avoid an "electronic spook" in the computer abort switch. Without the emergency technique the computer would have shot the moon lander back into a safe orbit instead of dropping it down to the lunar surface.

Shepard, oldest American astronaut, coolly touched down at "the flattest point around" after hovering at 170 feet for several long moments looking for the best site. "We're on the surface," exclaimed Mitchell, a rookie spaceman.

"We made a good landing," said Shepard. On the ground, the astronauts' families and ground controllers whooped with delight as Shepard and Mitchell reported touchdown.

"Good...good, they're down safe," cried Mrs. Louise Shepard at her Houston home. "The can't call him 'Old Mose' anymore. He's found his promised land."

Later, when Shepard stepped onto the moon, Louise jumped up and clapped her hands in Mission Control.

The astronauts spent almost five hours between the landing and moonwalk getting the Antares shipshape, eating lunch and donning their bulky white moon suits. They were 55 minutes late getting out of the lander because of trouble with their backpack communications.

"I think they put champagne instead of iodine in the LM (lunar module) water this time," Mitchell said as the astronauts struggled into their bulky garb. Shepard's descent to the gray, dusty surface was telecast by a camera mounted on the lander.

Shepard aimed the camera at the silver and gold spacecraft then bounded back into the picture to help jab the flag into the ground.

"Mobility is very great under this crushing one-sixth G (gravity)," Mitchell told ground control. Mitchell scooped a small sample of rocks and soil from the rim of a small crater 25 feet from Antares.

This contingency sample was stowed away in case the astronauts were forced to leave the moon ahead of schedule. "It's a very uneven landing area here. And it's pockmarked by a tremendous amount of craters," he said.

20,000 S. Viet troops sweep into Cambodia

SAIGON (UPI) — Nearly 20,000 South Vietnamese troops swept into Cambodia Thursday in a major drive against Communist forces in the Fishhook and Parrot's Peak regions. Another 29,000 U.S. and South Vietnamese men were poised at the Laotian border for a possible attack on the Ho Chi Minh trail.

South Vietnamese spokesmen said today their soldiers killed 69 Communists in a battle which started at noon Thursday 18 miles east of the Cambodian provincial capital of Kompong Cham, about 15 miles from the Vietnamese border.

They described it as their biggest victory of the year. The South Vietnamese involved in the action were part of a force of 19,500 men which earlier in the day started a two-pronged drive into the Fishhook and Parrot's Peak regions of Cambodia—two Communist-infested areas which jut into Vietnam.

The combined U.S. and South Vietnamese operation which began Saturday and pushed to the Laotian border west of the former U.S.

Marine base at Khe Sanh continued, but there were no indications the troops had crossed the border. "We are ready to go into Laos if we are ordered to," the commander of South Vietnam's paratroops division told UPI correspondent Leon Daniel.

Fire destroyed car on McLaughlin Rd. Fire virtually destroyed the rear and the interior of a small foreign car near Lompoc last night, but the driver escaped unscathed.

The incident occurred on McLaughlin Road a mile north of Lompoc shortly after 6:30 p.m. County fire officials said the driver, Dennis Phelps, of 1767 Calle Lindero Ave., Mission Hills, leaped from the car unharmed. Fire burned the magnesium around the engine and spread into the interior of the small rear engine vehicle, according to the officials. Cause of the fire was still undetermined today.

Court refuses to block Reagan cuts

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The 3rd District Court of Appeal has refused to consider a suit to block the Reagan Administration's 10 per cent cutback in Medi-Cal services and nursing home fees. Without comment, the court Thursday rejected the suit filed by Sacramento County which argued that Dr. Earl Brian, state Medi-Cal Administrator, made the cuts illegally.

But Sacramento County counsel John Heinrich, who filed the suit, said he plans to file a Superior Court action Monday which is similar to the California Medical Association's suit challenging the reductions. He said the county and CMA suits will be argued at a Sacramento hearing Feb. 19 before Superior Court Judge William M. Gallagher.

The administration contends the reduction in certain services to Medi-Cal recipients along with the cuts in provider fees paid to nursing homes, doctors, dentists and pharmacists—among others—were needed to head off a threatened $140 million deficit.

A spokesman for the governor said the administration was "pleased with the decision."

No military closures in State, DOD says

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —Gov. Ronald Reagan says Defense Department officials have told him that no closures of California military bases or installations are scheduled in the near future.

In a statement Thursday the governor said he has been assured that prior to any "significant reductions in defense base employment" in California, he will be given an opportunity to discuss them with defense officials.

"These actions," Reagan said, "will contribute to the continued stability of California's employment picture during the year ahead."

Public hearing Monday on city 'nuisance' law

By VAUGHN PROCTOR
Staff Writer

Monday, the Planning Commission will hold a public hearing on the most controversial proposals ever advanced for control of property nuisances.

Some observers have dubbed the proposals, "a Beverly Hills-type ordinance," because of the power the city would assume in the control and abatement of unsightly or not in harmony features on private property.

Portions of the measure have already drawn the fire of individual commissioners, but other provisions have been praised. In the latter category are provisions restating requirements of various building codes, but enabling the city to move faster in the abatement of abuses than has been possible, according to City Attorney James Longtin.

The hearing is set for Monday, 7:30 p.m., in the City Hall.

Briefly the ordinance, if it becomes that, would enable the city to abate a wide variety of abuses based on the determination that the abuse adversely affected neighboring property values or that it posed a hazard to the welfare of others.

What is the rationale behind the proposals? Section 1 sets forth the following: "The City Council finds and determines that this city has a history and reputation for well-kept properties and strict enforcement of zoning restrictions and building regulations; that the values and general welfare of this community are founded upon the appearance and maintenance of properties and property values; that there now appears to be a need for further control over the maintenance of certain premises in that certain conditions, as hereinafter set forth, have been found to exist from time to time and from place to place throughout the city."

If the official city so determines, the property owner would correct the problem or the city would do it for him and add the cost to the tax rolls.

The City Council acting on the advice of the Community Development Director, would first make a determination that an alleged abuse was in fact a "public nuisance."

In most cases, however, the problem, if it was that, would be corrected merely after a consultation between the property owner and the Community Development Director, according to Longtin.

Only when the property owner failed to act and after the City Council had determined that the alleged condition was a public nuisance would the city go so far as to have someone other than the property owner himself make the correction.

Police arrest armed suspect in business firm burglary

Lompoc police yesterday arrested an armed burglary suspect from Pasadena and confiscated an estimated $3,000 worth of business machines.

Eldon Coleridge Coffee, 23, was taken into custody while sitting in his car near a local pawnshop. Police said he was armed with a loaded .30 caliber rifle, but offered no resistance. Coffee, was accompanied by his wife and a small child. They were not held.

Police said Coffee gave the address of 401-B E. Prune Ave., but they said he was formerly from Altadena, a suburb of Pasadena, and was wanted for a Jan. 28 commercial burglary in that area. Confiscated were two adding machines, a duplicating machine and a postal meter.

Pasadena police arrived last night to return the suspect to the Los Angeles County city.

Signal seen for drop in unemployment

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Unemployment in the nation rose in January by 780,000 but the government said the 6 per cent jobless rate was an improvement over December and could signal a steady drop.

The December rate previously had been reported at 6 per cent but the Labor Department said that it was raised to 6.2 per cent after adjustments for just-completed 1970 trends. That meant the January rate was 0.2 per cent below December—the first drop in seven months.

While the figures reported by the Labor Department showed a rise of 780,000 unemployed persons to a total of 5.4 million—and a drop of 1.3 million in the number of persons holding jobs—the Nixon administration said the over-all rate of decline was significant.

As the Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics was announcing the new figures, a high Labor official told reporters at a separate news conference arranged by the White House that the January report marked "a change in trends—a change in direction"—and could be the start of a steady decline in the unemployment rate.

The official, who declined to allow use of his name, said seasonally adjusted figures showed improvement in January in total employment, total unemployment, average work week, claims for unemployment compensation and joblessness among adult men.

Suspect bound over on narcotic charge

Eddie Joe Cason, 19, of 314 S. F St., faces a court appearance in Santa Maria Superior Court on Feb. 19 to answer felony charges of trafficking in marijuana and dangerous pills.

Cason was bound over yesterday in an appearance before Lompoc Justice Court Judge Terrill F. Cox.

Cason was arrested on Jan. 5 in a sweep by narcotics officers that netted more than 35 suspects. Court action is pending against many of them.

Snow, rain, fog, freezing picture of U.S. weather

By United Press International

Heavy snow swept the Upper Plains, steady rain, fog and freezing drizzle peppered the Midwest, tornadoes claimed eight lives in Mississippi and Alabama and ice storms were expected today in the Middle Atlantic states.

Seven persons were killed Thursday night when twisting winds demolished their house trailer at Gore Spring near Grenada, Miss. Another woman died when a twister raked her home three miles west of Bear Creek, Ala.

Fog and steady rain forced Vice President Spiro T. Agnew to cancel two flights into the Midwest Thursday.

Up to nine inches of snow and winds gusting to 40 miles an hour turned Kansas highways into skating rinks. Dozens of schools were closed as the storm blitzed Iowa with freezing rain and snowfalls expected to reach a half-foot.

Heavy snow warnings were in effect early today from Kansas northeastward through upper Michigan.

Ahead and south of the storm, rain and heavy, dense fog snarled expressways and backed up airports. Chicago's O'Hare Airport said the work load there had dropped by 30 to 40 per cent because of flight cancellations.

Families elated over moon landing

HOUSTON (UPI)—The moon hung over Harris County, Tex., like a lopsided cantaloupe. Inside the brightly-lighted River Oaks mansion of astronaut Alan B. Shepard, a girl screamed "whoopie."

"Good ... good, they're down safe," exulted Mrs. Louise Shepard, the blonde wife of the nation's first man in space.

"They can't call him 'Ole Mose' anymore," she said. "He's found his promised land."

Minutes earlier Shepard's voice had crackled through 238,000 miles of radio beams.

"It's a beautiful day in the land of Fra Mauro."

Louise Mitchell, wife of Shepard's moon companion, Edgar A. Mitchell, said she was surprised there wasn't more jubilation among the gathering of friends and family, including a couple of astronauts, who were watching at her home near the Manned Spacecraft Center.

"I'm very relieved and very happy everything went so well," said the chic brunette.

Kitty Hawk pilot Stuart A. Roosa's four children burst into excited cheers and clapped their hands. Then the telephone rang. It was Mrs. Shepard.

"Your husbands do good work," Joan Roosa told her. That is the ultimate compliment among military families.

Only a close circle of friends and family had watched the landing at Shepard's $150,000 home. Mrs. Shepard appeared calm, but a friend said, "I imagine she's a little uptight."

Catholics attack British troops

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI)—Roman Catholics attacked British troops with gasoline and gelignite bombs early today in a series of hit and run sorties that kept the city's trouble spots aflame.

Twenty-seven persons were arrested during the evening by army "snatch squads," specially-trained groups used to ferret out riot ringleaders. There were no reports of serious injury. One gasoline bomber apprehended said he was 8 years old.

An army spokesman described the city as "uneasy, but relatively calm." He praised priests in the area for their help in dispersing crowds.

Crowds of youths in the Ballymurphy area—scene of last month's clashes—threw gasoline bombs and stones at troops in their command post.

But the violence was on a more subdued scale than Wednesday's riots, in which six soldiers were injured by machine-gun and nail bomb attacks.

Tass reports moon landing

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet news agency Tass reported the Apollo 14 moon landing in an urgent one-paragraph dispatch 43 minutes after touchdown on the lunar surface.

Moscow radio's 1 p.m. newscasts carried brief reports of the landing and said the astronauts were preparing for their moon walk. There was no interruption of Soviet television broadcasts to announce the safe landing.

All planes were diverted from Omaha, Neb. Highways in the Chicago area backed up as lowered visibility shrouded the evening rush hour.

Further east, the Indiana-Pittsburgh American Basketball Association game scheduled at Louisville was canceled when a plane carrying the Pacers from Utah was unable to make connections in Chicago.

The rain brought its own problems. Streets in cities throughout southeastern Michigan were flooded and lined with stalled cars after as much as an inch of rain fell on top of a snow base. Flash flooding was reported near small streams from central Missouri into southern Illinois.

Freezing rain warnings were in effect this morning across parts of New York state and Pennsylvania and ice storm and travelers warnings were posted in parts of West Virginia.

First words told on moon landing

HOUSTON (UPI)—The first words on the moon by Apollo 14 were by Edgar D. Mitchell when he advised fellow astronaut Alan B. Shepard, "Contact, Al."

Shepard said, "Stop ... auto ... auto."

"We're on the surface," Mitchell replied.

Apollo 11's first words were "Houston ... Tranquility Base here. The Eagle has landed," by Edwin E. "Buzz" Aldrin July 20, 1969.

Alan L. Bean of Apollo 12 said "Contact ... drop ... probe" when he and Charles "Pete" Conrad landed, but space agency officials considered that engineering talk.

NASA officials consider the first words of Apollo 12 to be Conrad's exclamation: "Man oh man, Houston. I tell you I think we're in a place a lot dustier than Neil's (Armstrong's 11 site). Good thing we had a simulator because that was an IFR (instrument) landing."

Firemen's wives object to duty

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—Two wives of Sacramento firemen have sounded the alarm over their husbands getting paid while being locked up alone all night with a statuesque blonde divorcee.

Mrs. Kenneth A. Howard and Mrs. Ernest A. Lauer protested to authorities Thursday that their husbands split the dawn-to-dusk shift with Patsy Strong, 34-year-old radio dispatcher.

"It's not that I don't trust my husband," Mrs. Lauer later explained. "It's just that, it just isn't right to put one guy and one girl down there to work at night."

Mrs. Howard, 23, said, "I just don't think it's morally right. I think over a large period of time, if it goes on, the situation could develop into something not very good."

Patsy called the wives' protest "ridiculous."

"I wonder if they're afraid of me or the old man. I've said I hadn't seen anything I'm interested in, so there's nothing to be afraid of."

SLO asks refrain on city driving

SAN LUIS OBISPO (UPI)—The city council of this coastal community has passed a resolution asking residents to refrain from using their cars on the 22nd of each month.

Councilman Donald Q. Miller, a bicycle enthusiast, proposed the resolution "to give the air a rest." It passed on a 3-2 vote.

He said he selected the 22nd because April 22 last year was Earth day.

Boycott injunction studied

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The California Supreme Court has taken under advisement an appeal to lift an injunction against Cesar Chavez' boycott of one of the nation's largest lettuce growers.

An attorney for the grower, Bud Antle, Inc., told the court Thursday that the boycott by Chavez' United Farm Workers Organizing Committee was a "devastating" weapon far more powerful than a strike.

But William Carder, a UFWOC attorney, told the high court that the injunction, which was handed down by a judge in Salinas Valley where Chavez' campaign to organize lettuce workers began, was an "excess of jurisdiction" because the federal government has preempted the field in such disputes. Carder also argued the injunction was too broad and vague, and unconstitutional besides.

Carder protested the injunction was so restrictive it prohibited farm workers from even talking about it.

"If this injunction is upheld, we would be gagged," he said.

Richard D. Maltzman, Antle attorney, said his client was caught squarely in a jurisdictional dispute between the Teamsters Union and the UFWOC. The Teamsters currently represent Antle workers.

"We were to recognize the UFWOC," Maltzman said, "the Teamsters could immediately close us down."

"In the boycott, the farm workers have an economic power far beyond that of the picket line. The boycott has a devastating economic effect."

Chavez called a nationwide boycott against Antle as part of his effort to bring all farm workers in the Salinas Valley under the UFWOC banner.

He was jailed for 10 days in December for refusing to end the boycott, but the Supreme Court ordered him released Dec. 23 pending its ruling on the matter.

No environmental problem

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Construction problems involved in building an 800-mile pipeline in Alaska can be solved without upsetting the environment, the president of the firm that will build the pipeline said Thursday.

Edward Patton of Alyeska Pipeline Service Co. said there were "no unsolvable technical problems" preventing building the pipeline from Alaska's north slope to the port of Valdez.

Patton said tests still being conducted indicated there would be no adverse effects that cannot be corrected. He said a process has been developed to restore tundra torn up during construction and that the pipeline will be built in such a manner it will not block migration routes or disrupt breeding of caribou and other wildlife.

The wilderness society and several other environmental groups have filed suit seeking to prevent the federal government from issuing a permit for the project, arguing the pipeline would upset the fragile environment of the far north.

Post won't argue with Gov. Reagan

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—Legislative analyst A. Alan Post says he isn't going to argue with Gov. Ronald Reagan over Post's prediction that the governor's proposed state budget would trigger higher local property taxes.

Reagan told newsmen Thursday Post's budget forecasts were "inaccurate" and there would be no property tax increases if the legislature approves his budget along with proposals to revise welfare and Medi-Cal.

Post later told newsmen that "I'm not going to argue with the governor. We've been pretty accurate. I talk to the legislature and I tell them what I think the situation is. I have never responded to a governor's criticisms. It's the governor's prerogative to respond any way he wants."

At his news conference, Reagan said it has always been "our determination that we will never pass a tax on to local government. This doesn't answer the problem to change the pocket out of which you take the money from the same individual."

The governor has said his programs for reform of welfare and Medi-Cal will be presented later.

Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti and Senate leader James Mills, both Democrats, also have cautioned that deep state cuts in welfare and Medi-Cal spending would be shifted to the county property taxpayers to make up.

Reagan accused Mills and Moretti of "violating" an agreement to seek bipartisan solutions to the state problems.

"I tell them again if they will cooperate and meet with us I believe I can convince them that no tax increase is needed," he told newsmen.

Kennedy raps volunteers

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., says he made a survey of young men in his state but could find few who would volunteer to join an all-volunteer army. He attacked the idea as one that would lure "poor men's sons to fight rich men's wars."

Kennedy's attack on President Nixon's volunteer army proposal came Thursday in an appearance before the Senate Armed Services Committee. The administration has asked for more money and a two-year extension of the draft in hopes of converting to an all-volunteer force by mid-1973.

Kennedy told the committee he talked to college students during a trip around his state and asked them if they would support a volunteer army, and would they volunteer to join if one were established. "So far," he said, "I have a volunteer army of 37 1/2. Everyone wanted a volunteer army but no one wanted to volunteer."

Lions muffled at Buellton

Plexiglass covers out of the space age will satisfactorily muffle the loud roaring of lions, the hair-raising snarls of tigers at Andersen's Animal Kingdom in nearby Buellton, according to officials of the amusement park.

The operators of the park had been told early last month to make their animals "compatible" with owners and customers of nearby motels, by early April.

The County Planning Commission, receiving noise and odor complaints from operators of two motels on the Buellton Parkway, called on the Animal Kingdom head, Vincent Evans, to do something to curb the animal noises and mitigate the odors.

Two African lions, "Joe" and "Heathcliff," have just been "de-noised" by application of the plexiglass covers over their cages.

Similar treatment has been given to the cages of two Siberian tigers, "Rijo," and "Boris."

National cemetery proposed for VAFB

Congressman Charles M. Teague (R-Santa Paula), ranking minority member on the Veterans Affairs Committee, introduced two veterans' proposals today. Teague wants to create a national cemetery at Vandenberg Air Force Base and wants to recompute retired pay for military personnel on the basis of their present active duty status compensation.

Representative Teague pointed out in his floor remarks that, "There are presently almost three million veterans residing in California, all eligible for burial in a national cemetery. Yet the three national cemeteries in California, Fort Rosecrans at San Diego, Golden Gate at San Bruno, and San Francisco National at the Presidio, are all closed to future veteran burials because of lack of space. On the entire west coast, only the Willamette National Cemetery in Oregon remains open. The Vandenberg site, located between San Francisco and Los Angeles, is readily accessible to many California residents. The land at Vandenberg would cost nothing as it is already Federal property, and would require little development, so it is well suited for a national cemetery."

The second proposal computes military retired pay on current active duty basic pay (as was the law for about 100 years prior to 1958), instead of on the lower active duty base pay in effect at the time of retirement. The legislation is designed to guarantee every military retiree that the purchasing power of the retired pay he is entitled to would not continually be eroded by subsequent increases in consumer prices.

Last July, Secretary of Defense Melvin Laird stated that recomputation, such as Teague's, is a desirable goal and meets the need to treat retired members of the Armed Forces more equitably.

Congressman Teague concluded, "I hope we can meet these needs for ex-military personnel. Such improvements are consistent with my idea of enhancing the military career to allow for a volunteer army in the near future."

Supervisors gird for public hearing

A county official in Santa Barbara had just finished listening to a taped record of the uproarious session of two warring Santa Ynez Valley committees battling over the propriety of road builder Eldon Haskell's request for a hot mix plant in the valley.

County building hike

Building activity is showing definite signs of "picking up again," and predictions are that construction valuation will be up 18 per cent in the county in 1971 over the past year, County Building Official Ray Nokes said today.

Nokes said that most of the increase in activity has been in commercial work.

But he said he was confident that in a month or two housing activity would be on the upturn, due to recent drops in prime lending rates by commercial banks and savings and loan associations.

Savings and loans hold most of the mortgage money and their savings totals have been building up for the past several years, South Coast lending officials have shown. Thus, supply of mortgage money in this area is seen as adequate in every way.

Nokes said the view is that while building will be picking up this year in a number of county areas, most of the increase predicted will take place in Goleta Valley.

County officials in recent days have approved setting up of homesites on El Capitan Ranch, west of Ellwood, and a large multiple residential complex in western Goleta Valley by developer William Koart. New restaurants and an industrial complex have also been approved in Goleta Valley, where a 200-unit mobile home project is also underway.

Latest county construction figures just given out show that county building valuation in 1970 dropped to about $29-million, from $39-million in 1969.

In the realty field, experts in the Santa Barbara area were describing the latest activity in listings and sales as "astounding."

The Santa Barbara Board of Realtors, with more than 220 brokers and 478 sales associates in the field, has reported multiple listing sales in 1970 as having risen to a new high plateau of $49.9 million, well above the previous fine 1969 year. Most of the sales have been, resales, as city permits last year showed nine multiple units built for every new home.

were brought to the attention of the Community Development Director.

So too would "Broken windows, doors or other openings, constituting hazardous conditions or inviting trespassers and malicious mischief."

Two other paragraphs may figure in the more controversial debate. One would militate against "maintenance of premises so out of harmony or conformity with the maintenance standards of adjacent properties as to cause appreciable diminution of the enjoyment, use or property values of such adjacent properties."

Another states: "Property maintained (in relation to others) so as to establish a prevalence of depreciated values, impaired investments, and social and economic maladjustments to such an extent that the capacity to pay taxes is reduced and tax receipts from such particular area are inadequate for the cost of public services rendered therein."

There has been praise for and no clearcut opposition to proposals for control of "attractive nuisances dangerous to children such as abandoned and broken equipment, hazardous pools, ponds and excavations, and neglected machinery."

There is also clearcut support for provisions that would enable the city to abate property nuisances faster than has been possible under present uniform building codes.

Tractor accident victim doing well

Jose Moreno, 46, victim of a tractor accident two days ago south of Lompoc, was listed in satisfactory condition at Lompoc Hospital today.

Moreno, of 202 E. Olive Ave., was maneuvering his tractor and a trailer near a stream bed southeast of the intersection of Highway 1 and Santa Rosa Road when the trailer apparently slid down a 30-foot high embankment jackknifing the tractor with it.

The tractor landed upside down. Witnesses said Moreno fell beneath the surface of the water. Fellow workers rescued the man and called for an ambulance.

Eaves disagrees with jury report

Veteran County Auditor Albert Eaves Jr., who plainly does not agree with certain Grand Jury findings relating to accounting practices in his office, has confirmed he will continue these objections in a report to the Board of Supervisors.

Eaves has showed he did not agree with comments of the audit committee or the jury's auditors which call for need of updating of auditor practices.

Back from a three-week vacation with relatives in St. Louis, Mo., Eaves has returned to his office, but was unavailable Thursday for further comments.

The Grand Jury report itself indicated Eaves' opposition to audit committee findings.

New ordinance

Individual commissioners who must make a recommendation on the proposals have been critical of two paragraphs. The first would control: "Overgrown or hazardous trees, weeds or other vegetation (1) likely to harbor rats or other vermin; or (2) constituting an unsightly appearance; or (3) dangerous to public safety and welfare; or (4) detrimental to neighboring properties or property values."

Critics have argued that the paragraph opens the door to the whim of a property owner who might not like the way a neighbor mowed his lawn. Longtin has attempted to quiet the fears by noting that a stable, qualified Community Development Director would be able to distinguish between a capricious complaint and a valid one.

Nevertheless it would appear that the phrase, "constituting an unsightly appearance," will come in for some sharp criticism if past discussions at the commission level are any indication.

Some of the commissioners have also criticized a portion of another paragraph that would open the door to action against the storing of trailers, campers, boats "for unreasonable periods of time in or upon private property and visible from a public street."

One commissioner has also argued against the paragraph's inclusion of "clotheslines," in the list of items that could be forced to be removed from sight.

Another paragraph deals with the matter of offensive sounds. A property owner, through the machinery of the proposed ordinance would be able to gain relief in the case of "The emanation of noise of such loud, unusual, unnecessary, penetrating, raucous or boisterous nature as to unreasonably disturb, annoy, injure, interfere with or endanger, the comfort, repose, health, peace, safety or welfare of neighboring residents of normal sensitivity."

Some parts of the total proposal have received both public and private praise. These are the parts that would enable the city to abate, "Buildings which are abandoned, boarded up, partially destroyed, or permitted to remain for an unreasonable period of time in a state of partial construction."

"Unpainted buildings causing dry rot, warping or termite infestation," would also qualify for official action as the conditions

Girls Club installs new officers, gives awards

VIPS at annual installation dinner of Lompoc Valley Girls Club Wednesday night included from left: Mrs. Don D. Davis of Pasadena, Western regional field service director; Miss Angie Mangum, 15, named "girl of the year"; Millie Cowgill of Oxnard, recipient of a plaque of appreciation from Girls Club of America, Inc.; and Mrs. W. H. (Janet) Edwards, re-elected president of the local Girls Club Board of directors. Mrs. Cowgill's interest and research into the Girls Club program during her presidency of Lompoc Quota Club provided the impetus for the local organization.

Angie Mangum named "girl of the year"

A "first" for Lompoc Valley Girls Club was the naming of a "girl of the year" Wednesday night at the annual installation dinner. Chosen for the honor was Miss Angie Mangum, 15, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dan L. Mangum, 209 N. W St. A member of Girls Club for a year, Angie was selected on the basis of her helpfulness to younger girls, recruitment of new members, and her paper on the subject "What Girls Club Means to Me." A free hair styling at Binnie's Beauty Salon and other gifts were presented to the honoree.

Serving as dinner and program chairman at the Golden Greek Restaurant, was Mrs. Clyde C. (Florence) Holley. Approximately 40 members attended.

Introduced was Mrs. Don D. Davis of Pasadena, Western regional field service director of Girls Club of America, Inc. for all clubs west of the Mississippi River. This was her second visit to Lompoc as guest speaker for Girls Club.

Also presented were Millie Cowgill of Oxnard, past president of both Lompoc Quota Club and Lompoc Girls Club, and Helen Smith, current president of Quota. Their interest and research on the Girls Club program during the former's presidency brought about the organization of the local club.

Others at the head table were Mrs. James (Dottie) Croker, Girls Club director; Mrs. W. H. (Janet) Edwards, president of Lompoc Girls Club board of directors; and Laura Henderson, "grandmother" of Lompoc Girls Club.

The club's newly acquired home was formerly owned by Mrs. Henderson who turned over the deed last week. Making the purchase possible was a $14,000 grant from the Santa Barbara Foundation, plus contributions from the Boeing Good Neighbor Fund, Quota Club, Rotary, Kiwanis and a number of individuals.

Introduced as volunteer workers for Girls Club were George and Irene Wray, Lydia O'Neil and Lia Garman. New members of the board are Joe L. Lasley, Grace Carithers and George Wray.

Installed by Mrs. Davis, assisted by Millie Cowgill, were the board officers: Mrs. W. H. Edwards, president; Mrs. Clyde C. Holley, vice president; Rev. Arthur Batt, second vice president; Mrs. Sal Lopez, recording secretary; Jane Moore, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Joe (Dorothea) Lasley, treasurer. Each was presented with a silhouette medallion of a girls head and flower.

Table decorations included styrofoam balls with flags naming the states having official Girls Clubs. There are 36. With a total membership of 275, Lompoc Girls Club actively serves 150 each week.

A highlight of the evening was the presentation of a plaque from Girls Club of America, Inc. to Mrs. Cowgill in appreciation "for dedicated service to Girls Club."

Honoring John Peto, Friends of the Library immediate past president, right, will be the books he selects as the gift of his organization to Lompoc Library. Each year Friends so honors its president. Pictured with Peto as they examine samples of bookplates which will record the donation in each book, is Friends new president, Art Heinrich.

Friends of Library seek added members and books

Greater support for the Lompoc Public Library via membership in Friends of the Library and book donations was voiced in an appeal today by the group's new president, Art Heinrich.

"There are many 'extras' that make a library more enjoyable and richer in its resources and service," Heinrich said. "The library budget simply will not allow for their purchase, but Friends can be of great help."

The president said dues for the citizens' group are $2 annually for individuals and families, and $5 for clubs. Friends are making a major effort to attract new members.

Dues money is often used for the numerous gifts to the library the group makes, he said, although the bulk of the gift funds is raised at the annual used book sale.

At a meeting this week, Friends voted to spend $80 for exhibit equipment and six new headsets for the record players. Heinrich reports the group's bank accounts depleted. Future gifts will depend on the success of the book sale March 27 at the Veterans' Memorial Building.

Dues may be mailed to Friends of the Library at P. O. Box 506. Donations of good, used books of all kinds, including paperbacks, may be left in a box at the library. Donors also may call RE-9349 or RE-6-6478 for pickup service.

The Friends president called the new library, opened in 1969, a "fine" facility. But, he noted, demands on it have increased tremendously.

Circulation in 1970 climbed to a record of 206,159, from a 1969 record of 172,455. Heinrich said book acquisitions had slowed just prior to the move to the new building, because of cramped space, and that they have been stepped-up since.

The library had about 40,000 books when it moved and now owns about 51,000.

Heinrich noted that national standards call for a minimum of two books per capita. The library's service area has 43,000 people, so it should have a collection of 86,000 books, he said.

"That's where Friends can be of help. In these days of tight finances, the library can't catch up to standards as quickly as it would like. A citizens' group, raising money and promoting donations, can make some difference," he declares.

Elected with Heinrich as officers were: Mrs. William Bastedo, vice-president; Mrs. Frank Chiberto, secretary; and Dr. Joe M. Johnson, treasurer.

Purchases for the library during the last year, with John Peto as president, included: $300 for 12 additional framed art prints (the library board agreed to match Friends' funds for another 12, to bring the circulating collection of pictures to 40); an electric typewriter and adding machine for free use by the public; a variety of vases; a hand puppet stage and puppets for the children's librarian.

Friends paid for an exhibit of contemporary Japanese prints in the multi-use room last month. A show by the California Watercolor Society is planned for May.

Proceeds from previous book sales have purchased $870 in audio-visual equipment when the library opened, and the original 14 framed art prints now available to library patrons.

Girls groups cheer hospital patients

Three groups of "Girls in Action," an auxiliary of the Women's Missionary Society of Mission Hills Baptist Church, recently visited the long term care unit at Lompoc Hospital. There they sang hymns in the reception room where the patients were gathered for entertainment.

The girls gave birthday cards to one of the bed patients and conversed with several others. Leaders present were Mrs. Lucy Soulek, director; Mrs. Martha Presley, Miss Lynn Dale, Miss Alice Soulek and Mrs. Thelma Smith. Hostess for the evening was Trudy Okun, coordinator of "Volunteers for Cheer."

Following a tour of the hospital and visit with patients, Mrs. Okun served refreshments to the group in the dining room.

Camp Fire ceremonial is a first

A special occasion for Camp Fire groups of Ta Wa Tenya and Koki Akipsaya was their first ceremonial, held recently at La Honda School. Indian lore was the theme as the girls told the origin of Camp Fire Girls and explained requirements for earning beads and ranks. Added interests were Indian dances and prayers. A special ceremony honored the American flag.

Ta Wa Tenya girls receiving their first honor beads were: Dana Miller, Lauren Vandborg, Tracy Walker, Corina Luna, Teresa Cyrus, Betty Linithicum, April Rowan, Donna Lenahan, Shawn Septer. Mrs. Michael Miller is their guardian.

Koki Akipsaya girls receiving their first beads were: Grace Denish, Susan Kessler, Angel House, Elaine George, Cheryl Clees, Kim Cook, Mrs. Virgil Benesh is their guardian.

The meeting was closed with a friendship circle and repeating of the Camp Fire law and a prayer in Indian sign language. Refreshments were served to parents, teachers and friends.

Camp Fire Girls observe international friendship

Great fun for Camp Fire Girls of Group 051, "A Ki Yi Ha Pi," their parents and teachers was the international friendship dinner at which they entertained on Thursday night. The old Housing Authority Building was locale for the event. Assisting the girls as hostesses were Mrs. Robert Scott, 528 N. First St., their Camp Fire guardian, and Mrs. Louie Dalcerra, 524 N. Second St., her assistant.

On the building walls were posters of various countries. Tables were laid with foreign flag placemats and centered with dolls of every nation. Individual flags served as favors.

Dressed in costumes appropriate to the land they portrayed, each girl brought greetings in native language. Giving the Robert Burns "Scottish Prayer," and a welcome, was Jackie Cunningham.

Other participants and countries were: Denise Dalcerra, Italy; Glenna Dimitt, Canada; Kathy Kelley, India; Karen Kroemer, Spain; Dane Meyer, Japan; Tracy Parson, Ireland; Janet Ruckman, Germany; Barbara Scott, Mexico; Robin Souleyret, England.

The dinner buffet featured a centerpiece of carnations, greenery and flags.

Included on the international menu were: Ensalada de Noche Buena (Mexico); Ensalada de Andeluz (Spain); Green Salad (Canada); Japanese Rice a la Luise; India Chicken with Sesame;

DEAR ABBY: My mother is my problem. I am an only child—if you can call a woman of 24 a "child." I want to have an apartment with a very nice girl friend of mine, but every time I mention it, my mother hits the ceiling. She keeps telling me I am her "whole life." Yes, my father is living, but he and Mom never had much of a marriage. They never go anywhere together and they have no friends.

If I go on a date my mother waits up for me and asks me a lot of questions. ("What did you say? What did he say?")

I used to tell Mom everything, but I don't anymore, which "hurts" her, and she lets me know it.

I know I should move. But how can I? Mom does everything to keep me home. I pay no room or board, altho I have offered and can well afford it. Mom does all my laundry

Dear Abby

Just tell mother you're moving out

(even my lingerie every night), she makes my bed and cleans my room, closets and drawers.

Can you help me, Abby?

TOO MUCH MOTHER

DEAR TOO: You answered your own question. ("I know I should move.") But the "how" may take more fortitude than you possess. First, tell your mother that you are moving. Pack up. And move. Avoid lengthy discussions, explanations and debates. And don't feel guilty. You are entitled to a life of your own, and under the present setup you'll never have it. The free room and board, laundry, housekeeping, etc., are extensions of the umbilical cord.

DEAR ABBY: Shirley (made up name) and I were having our domestic problems so we went to a marriage counselor whom we saw twice. Things seemed to be getting better when this counselor (he's a psychologist) asked Shirley some questions about our sex life.

That did it! Shirley quickly withdrew saying she was not about to discuss anything so intimate with an "outsider." Any suggestions? We've been married for 12 years, have four children, and I'm not ready for the rocking chair yet.

SHIRLEY'S PATIENT HUSBAND

DEAR HUSBAND: Tell Shirley that a professional counselor, like a doctor, assumes a strictly clinical and impersonal attitude toward those he counsels. Assure her that all humans behave pretty much the same and she has nothing to be ashamed of, so the sooner she sheds those prudish notions, the happier she'll be.

CAUGHT IN THE middle of her routine, is Cabrillo's candidate to the Miss Drill Team USA pageant, Angie Jozwiak. Angie will wear this outfit to perform at Santa Monica.

Angie goes USA

Recently chosen from the ranks of the Cabrillo Drill team to attend the Miss Drill Team USA pageant, was Angie Jozwiak. Angie is a senior and has been a member of the drill team for three years.

She was chosen by a vote of the drill team and will attend the pageant on February 15. The preliminaries will be held in the Santa Monica High school auditorium, while the finals will be held in the Santa Monica Civic Auditorium.

Angie will be competing against approximately 400 girls from all over the United States. She will perform a routine to a recording of "Lucretia MacEvil."

She made up the routine herself and received the most help from the moves learned at drill team summer camp, which she attended. As for the selection of the music, Angie commented, "I just liked the beat and thought it would be good to perform to."

Fifteen finalists will be chosen from the field of 400. The fifteen girls will then fulfill three more requirements: (a) give a 1-2 minute speech on some aspect of drill team; (b) model a uniform and (c) demonstrate five different ways of starting and stopping a routine.

Then five girls will be chosen, one of whom will be named Miss Drill Team, with the other four named as runner-ups.

Theresa and her parents had been discussing the matter for about four months. She left February first and will be returning sometime this summer or next school year.

The town that Theresa will be staying in with her girlfriend and her girlfriend's parents is approximately 150 miles from the Belgian border. There she will be attending public schools. Her girlfriend's name is Katherine Szajmanowicz.

The biggest decision Theresa's parents had in allowing her to go was deciding whether she should wait until she had graduated. Theresa now hopes on going to college there but whether her wish will be granted is entirely up to her parents.

On February 18 Theresa, Katherine and her family will be going to Switzerland. This is where Theresa will be spending most of the eight months in which she will be in Europe.

Theresa stated about her future that "I want to be a French teacher on the college level."

The Szajmanowicz family own a sweater store in France, and Katherine is kept busy with a younger brother.

Among Theresa's interests while here in the states were horses and while in school she was a member of the Blue Spur Horsemen.

Schools to host weekend dances

Two dances will be held tomorrow night, one at Lompoc and one at Cabrillo High.

The Lompoc Key Club will sponsor a canned food dance in the cafeteria, from 8:30 until 11:30. Price of admission will be a can of food. The John Voss group will be providing the music.

The food collected will make up the Easter baskets given by the Kiwanis Club to needy families in the area.

The freshmen class will be sponsoring the dance at Cabrillo, from 8:30 until 11:30. The event will be held in the cafeteria, with Katharis the band.

Price of admission will be $1.50 with ASB and $.75 without.

CASC initiates student exchange

The California Association of Student Councils, CASC, will sponsor another student exchange, similar to the one held in October.

The decision was made at a recent CASC district No. 9 meeting held in Santa Maria.

Five students from each school will stay with the exchange school February 17, 18 and 19th, with the option of staying over the weekend of the 20th.

Atascadero will send five students to Cabrillo and Cabrillo will send five to Atascadero. Lompoc will exchange with Arroyo Grande.

Students who have been chosen to attend will be announced at a later date.

In other CASC business, an ecology committee was formed, with Charlie Jackson, Lompoc's ASB president, chosen to head the group. Margo Crummy, CASC treasurer from Cabrillo, will be vice-president of the committee. The next CASC meeting is scheduled for February 8.

BUILD A CAR—A hobby company has come out with a line of "Strip 'n' Steer" model cars which can be assembled and taken apart again without using glue or tools. The idea is to cut down on glue sniffing. (Well, that's what they told us.)

TIGHT MONEY—Word around the record world is that the price of LPs is due to go up about a buck a throw come Jan. 1. Gives you something to look forward to for the New Year, eh?

MYSTERY UNRAVELED—Ever wonder about the significance of the title of Chicago's hit, "25 or 6 to 4"? Lots of folks thought it had some mystic meaning, but we hear that the tune was written at about 25 or 6 to 4 a.m., which is how it got called "25 or 6 to 4." If you were writing music at 25 or 26 to 4 in the morning you might not be able to come up with a good title either. Speaking of Chicago, one of the guys in the group has a brother who is on the narcotics squad of the Chicago force. How antidrug can you get?

SPORTS SHORTS—In case this sort of thing will make your winter complete, be advised that major league umpires do indeed have off-season things going for them. The one we keep running into is Nick Colosi, a National League ump, who is a captain at Jules Podell's Copacabana when things get cold.

AWARD TIME—This being the time of year when everybody gives awards to everybody else, Youth Beat refuses to be left out. So, to Mike Nesmith, former Monkee now doing a single, goes the Youth Beat "It Wasn't a Hit But It Should Have Been" for his LP, Magnetic South, which we think was one of the best of the year. "Crippled Lion" has got to go down as one of the better cuts in the last three or four seasons and the nation's disc jocks get five whacks from Maxwell's Silver Hammer for not making it a hit. No, nobody here is related to Mike, but we hate to see a good record go wrong.

USELESS INFORMATION—There are 70 "Rocks" in the New York telephone book, but only 23 "Rolls."

STILL VOTING—We're about down to the line on our man of the year contest, but there's still time left to let us know whom you favor. Write to Youth Beat, care of this paper.

Spotlight on Students

"Take each moment as it comes"—Lee Walker

Providing a boost at almost every football assembly this year at Cabrillo was the "Dirty Ole Man" skit. This week's spotlight, Lee Walker, is the Dirty Ole Man, though he doesn't always like to be referred to as such.

Lee's main interests center in the drama and music fields. He held several parts in the last play, "My Sister Eileen," and will appear in the next production, "Teach Me How to Cry."

Lee plays piano and organ, and sings baritone in the concert choir. He also provides organ and piano for the wind ensemble when it is needed.

Though Lee has had keyboard lessons, he acquired his present knowledge through his own effort.

Lee will provide the musical background for the senior fashion show, to be held next week.

He comments on his music, "It's expression. . . a better way of expression than violence or other forms."

Lee plans to attend Gustavus Aldophus College in Minnesota, where he will major in fine arts.

In his spare time, Lee likes to make sand candles and be with people.

Lee explained his outlook on life: "I'm carefree, happy-go-lucky. I live for the moment."

Lee also explains how he got the part of the Dirty Ole Man: "It was type casting. That's the real me." On school spirit, he comments

"Spirit is kind of down now, but it depends on the sport or the atmosphere. It will be up again soon."

In conclusion, Lee added, "I'm not going to change my way of life for someone else. They like me the way I am."

Athletic field on rooftop

ORANGE (UPI)—In an attempt to make more efficient use of space, Chapman College is studying the feasibility of including a 200,000-square-foot athletic field on the roof of a three-story fine arts building.

The artificial turfed field would include a running track, tennis courts, intramural football fields and a putting green. There was even consideration of playing Chapman's baseball games there.

The fine arts building complex would contain classrooms, dormitories, lecture halls, a student hall and the athletic facilities. The entire project was expected to run $8.4 million.

The Department of Health, Education and Welfare and the Department of Housing and Urban Development also were interested in what they called the Chapman Project. Funds from those sources would be needed to complete the project.

"I've never heard of anything like it before," said John Walsh, an HEW Facility Engineering Agency official in Washington. "This type of project is unique."

The complex would require the purchase of two city blocks for $3 million. Funds for the project would come from private donations, and from federal grants and loans.

"We think this is one of the ways colleges with space limitations will have to go," said Jerry Kosro of the HEW office in San Francisco.

John Madden testimonial in S. Maria

Former Allan Hancock football coach John Madden, known more widely for his success as head mentor of the Oakland Raiders for the past two seasons, will be accompanied by four members of the Raiders when Santa Maria holds its John Madden testimonial night, Feb. 17.

Joining Madden for his return to Santa Maria will be center Jim Otto, wide receiver Fred Biletnikoff, offensive tackle Art Shell and middle linebacker Dan Conners, all starters on this year's Raider team.

Otto, a 6-2, 248 pounder, is an 11-year pro from Miami University while Conners (6-1, 230) also played his collegiate football at Miami. Conners completed his seventh season this year.

Biletnikoff, an all-American at Florida State, is a 6-1, 198 pound six year veteran while Shell (6-5, 255) completed his third season in pro ball after playing at Maryland State.

Tickets, priced at $5 each, for the fete to be held at the Santa Maria Elks Club, may be obtained at the Student Accounts Office at AHC, Simas Sporting Goods, KSMA radio, or Pico's Sporting Goods in Lompoc. Sponsoring the event is the Hancock Booster Club. Proceeds will go to support the college's athletic program.

Ladies golf tourney results from Village CC

Thirty-eight lady golfers attacked the fairways and greens last Tuesday in the Village Country Club Ladies Golf Association tournament.

The Nassau tourney was divided into three flights.

Cal Stokes checked in with the best 18 hole score in the first flight, with Virgie Burger and Pris Heflin winning the front and back nine, respectively.

In the second flight it was Evelyn MacLeod with the best 18. Joyce Campbell and Carol Bratz tied for the best front nine. Dorothy MacClure was tops on the back nine.

In the third flight it was Viv Irvine (best 18), Elsie Briscoe and Billie Carlson (tie for best front nine), and Gladys Stock (top dog on back nine) emerging victorious.

Hillmen ready to challenge hot Knights

The Cabrillo Eagles will try to get a winning streak started tonight when they play host to the tough San Marcos Knights.

The Knights moved into third place in the Santa Barbara County League last Tuesday by tearing apart Santa Maria, 69-55. But San Marcos is an inconsistent team. It's tough to predict how they will perform tonight.

The eagles will be looking for only their second league win. Despite the rough going they have experienced in league play, however, the Hillmen are not discouraged.

"I can't believe the morale on this team," enthused coach Don McIntyre yesterday after his team had worked out.

"We practiced for an hour today, and when I was through with them, every player stayed on the court to practice on his own. This is just a fantastic group to work with. I get down sometimes but these guys never seem to."

It's refreshing to hear of a team that doesn't have to win a league championship to enjoy playing the game. The Eagles will not even reach the .500 mark in league play this year, but still they refuse to sulk or play dead.

McIntyre will employ the same lineup that started in last Tuesday's loss to Arroyo Grande. Ken Murphy, brought up from the JV's to start last game, only scored five points, but played well according to McIntyre and will start again. Also starting are Chris Winegarner, Ernie Martin, Matt O'Brien and Mike Kluge.

Kluge is currently averaging 16.3 points per game, sixth best in the league. O'Brien and Martin are averaging 8.6 apiece.

The Eagles will have to find some way to contain the leagues number one gun, Steve Weist. The 6-3 senior is ripping the nets to the tune of 20.6 points per game.

When the same two teams met two weeks ago, Weist dropped in a prodigious 39 points in leading his team to a 81-60 victory. He got a large number of his points on tip-ins, so the Eagles may find it to their advantage to help Weist stay some distance from his offensive boards.

"We'll use the full court press more than we have been," revealed McIntyre. "Other than that we have no new strategy. We'll go with our same zone defense."

Cabrillo can't move up in the league standings tonight, but would like to open up a little more daylight between itself and last place San Luis in the standings.

LOMPOC'S GREG CHARBONEAU flies through the air towards a San Luis player who obviously has a good head for basketball. Lompoc will try to get ahead (sorry) tonight when they face league leading Dos Pueblos.

Hancock rips Merced to share league lead

By Terry Lewis Sports Correspondent

The Allan Hancock College Bulldogs trimmed the Merced Blue Devils 70-60 last night to throw first place in the Central Conference race into a tie as both teams now carry a 4-1 record into the second round of conference action.

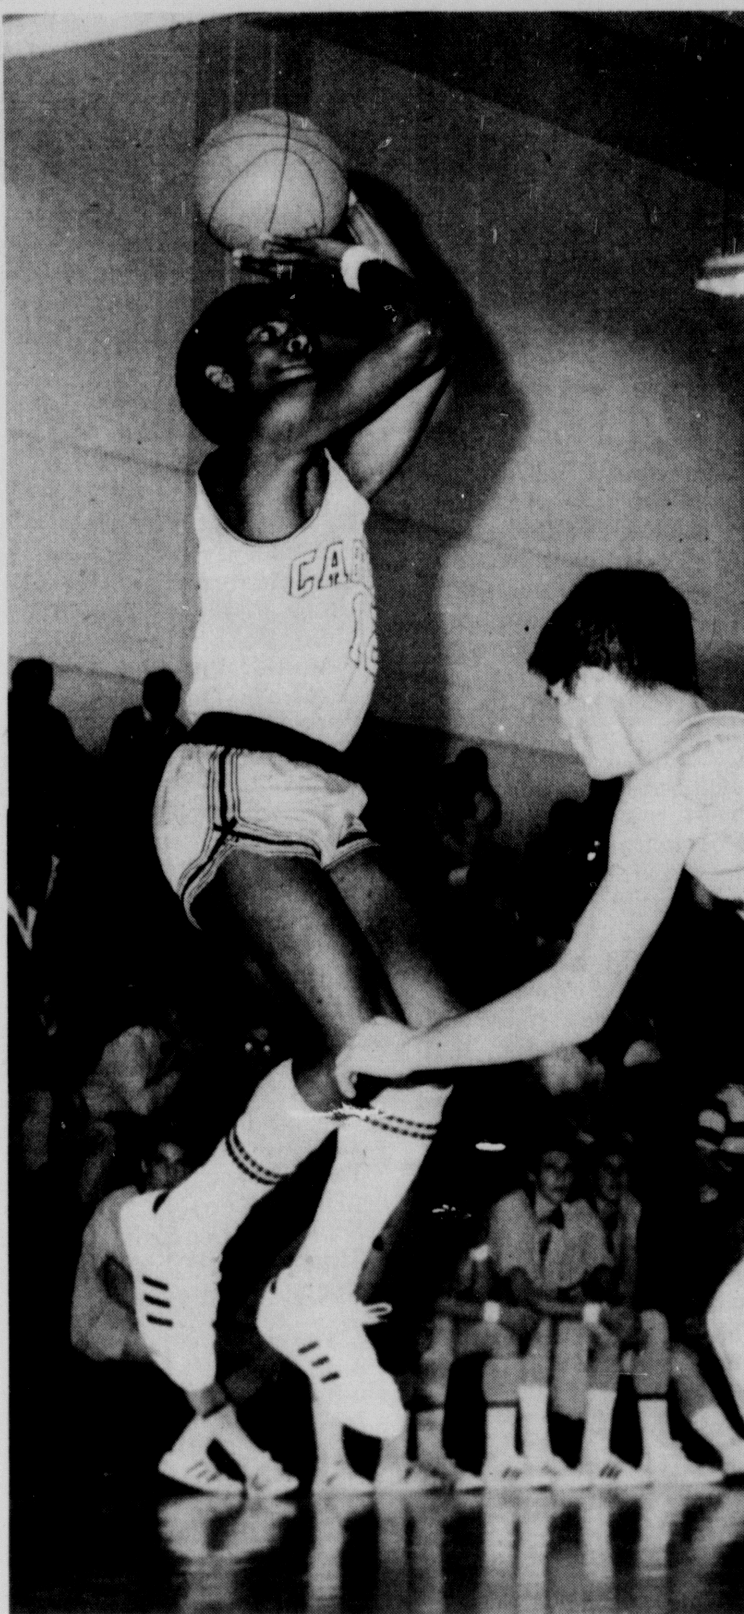

The Bulldogs were led by 6-foot-3 sophomore forward Tim Vivian who scored 27 and grabbed 10 rebounds. Vivian, a graduate of Cabrillo High School, was also 11 of 13 from the free throw line.

During the first minutes of the game the score changed hands many times with neither team leading by more than three points. Then with 7:16 remaining in the half coach Bob McCatchen called time out.

At that time the Bulldogs trailed 18-17. From that point the Bulldogs went to work.

On the offensive boards Vivian, John Roth and center Maurice Peoples were getting three and four shots off in a row as they outrebounded the taller Blue Devils at both ends of the court.

Hillmen wrestlers win forfeit

By Roxie Thompson Prep Sports Writer

Cabrillo's varsity wrestling team was scheduled to wrestle the San Marcos team tonight but the Knights forfeited the match.

This is the first year that San Marcos has had a wrestling team. The last time Cabrillo met San Marcos, the Knights were shut out 49-0.

Although varsity wrestling match has been forfeited, the Cabrillo JV and freshmen teams will travel to San Marcos and proceed with matches as scheduled.

Saturday, Cabrillos freshmen will attend the San Luis Obispo wrestling tournament.

Issel, Pratt lead Kentucky to win

By United Press International

It was like old times for Dan Issel and Mike Pratt.

The two rookies, who helped the University of Kentucky finish last season as the nation's No. 1 ranked college basketball team, combined for 42 points Thursday night to lead the Kentucky Colonels to a 106-99 victory over the New York Nets.

Issel, one of the front-runners for Rookie of the Year honors in the American Basketball Association, scored 25 points and hauled in 16 rebounds while Pratt had a career high 17 points while assisting on eight baskets.

The Colonels went on a 24-10 tear late in the first half to open up a 59-44 lead and were never in trouble thereafter. Rick Barry had 25 points and Manny Leaks 22 to lead the Nets.

The scheduled opener of the doubleheader at Louisville between Indiana and Pittsburgh was postponed until March 16 when the Pacers were unable to arrive in time.

In the only other scheduled ABA action, Neil Johnson and Mike Barrett scored 25 points each to lead the Virginia Squires to a 138-129 double overtime victory over the Floridians.

Virginia rallied twice to tie the game, once on Ira Harge's field goal at the end of regulation play and again on Barrett's basket at the first overtime buzzer. Charlie Scott and Ray Scott keyed the Squires' second overtime attack that put the game out of reach.

Larry Jones had 38 points for the Floridians and Mack Calvin had 30.

WCAC race tightens, Loyola on top

United Press

The West Coast Athletic Conference race is still as scrambled as your breakfast egg, but Loyola and UOP would seem to be on the road to the top.

Loyola, which didn't look that good in the early going, refuses to fold.

The Lions are now 5-1 for the League and 10-7 for the season after disposing of St. Mary's 82-66 at Moraga Thursday in a strong show. Richard Dixon had 31 and Jim Haderlain 21 for the winners.

UOP is 5-2 and a strong 13-5 for the season after winning its 21st home victory in a row. The Tigers blasted Pepperdine 80-55 even though they hit a so-so 39 per cent of their shots. Jim McCargo had 21 for the Tigers in that one.

The third contender is Santa Clara, now 4-2 after taking Nevada Reno 93-76. Bruce Winkler had 17 for the Broncos, who have not looked as impressive as the Lions and Tigers to date. USF took a 3-1 record into the meat-grinder at Las

Lompoc hits road to try Dos Pueblos

By Scott Ostler Sports Editor

The unpredictable Lompoc Braves have their work cut out for them tonight.

They'll be out to accomplish what no other Santa Barbara County League team has been able to do this year—beat CIF third ranked Dos Pueblos high (9-0) in a basketball game. On the Charger's home court yet.

But hold your money. The Braves have an honest shot at a big upset. Last time the two teams met, Lompoc gave the Chargers a scare, coming as close as four points before fading in the last quarter and losing 74-57.

After that game Dos Pueblos coach Don Volpe called the Braves the best team his boys had faced all year.

Lompoc is coming off a win over San Luis and coach Dave Ellison says his team is "raring to go."

One problem the Braves will have to cope with is a 6-7 Dos Pueblos center, Bruce Coldren. Coldren is averaging 16.4 points and against Lompoc last time pumped in 25.

Ellison revealed the defense his team will employ against Coldren: "We're going to shoot him."

While they're at it they had better take care of the Charger's Stein, who average 17.3, fourth best in the league.

Ellison said he plans to put center Roy Thomas on Coldren and guard Stein with Tim McDonald.

The Chargers are a physical, well-disciplined team. Many of their players have worked together since the eighth grade. But they can be beaten. In fact they lost a pre-season game—to CIF's number three ranked 4A team, Crescenta Valley.

The Chargers have a reputation of not running away with all their games. But when a game gets close, they always seem to show a little more poise than their opponents. For example the last quarter against Lompoc, when the Braves "got desperate and lost their cool", according to Ellison.

Lompoc will need big performances from Thomas and guard Joe Brooks in order to win. Brooks is the league's third top scorer with a 17.9 average. Thomas gets 15.7 points a game and usually a few rebounds too.

"We've got nothing to lose," stated Ellison.

"We'll throw a press at them, which seemed to bother them last time, we'll use some man-to-man, and some zone. And as usual we'll run."

If the Braves pull of an upset and Arroyo Grande loses, Lompoc will move up one place into fifth in the standings.

Roche pumps in 56 to break ACC record

United Press International

After nearly three years of frustrations, the "real John Roche" has stood up.

Roche, the talented South Carolina guard, broke the Atlantic Coast Conference scoring record Thursday night as he scored 56 points in leading the seventh-ranked Gamecocks to an easy 118-83 victory over Furman.

"He could do that all the time," said Frank McGuire, the South Carolina coach. "He's the most unselfish player I've ever coached. He could easily score 40 and 50 a game if he didn't pass the ball off."

Roche, one of McGuire's many New York City imports, has had his share of frustration during his three-year varsity career. He has twice won ACC Player of the Year honors and twice he has seen his team upset the post season play.

But Thursday he had 21 points at the half and left in the final two minutes after breaking the record.

"Our boys must really think Roche is great," said Joe Williams, the Furman coach. "They were watching him all night."

In other action involving ranked teams, Jacksonville (No. 6) routed South Alabama 102-83 and North Carolina (No. 15) ripped Wake Forest 93-75.

Elsewhere, Wichita State beat Bradley 97-84. St. Louis romped past North Texas State 88-58, Memphis State upset Drake 73-72. New Mexico held off Arizona 81-77, Texas-El Paso whipped Arizona State 74-59, Manhattan edged New York University 77-73 and Houston defeated Long Island University 81-75.

Harold Fox had 26 points and Artis Gilmore 25 as Jacksonville lifted its record to 17-2 with its rout of South Alabama and Dennis Wuycik and George Karl had 22 points each in North Carolina's victory over Wake Forest.

James Douglas scored 18 points and Larry Finch hit four free throws in the final minutes to lead Memphis State over Drake and Jim Irving's 25 points helped St. Louis beat North Texas State. Terry Benton's 21 points and 23 rebounds boosted Wichita State over Bradley while reserve Steve Newsome hit 15 points in the second half to help Houston offset a late LIU rally.

Big Seattle track meet attracts shotman Feurbach

SEATTLE (UPI)—Recordsetting shot putter Al Feurbach leads a glittering field of national and world champions into the seventh Seattle Invitational indoor track meet Saturday.

Feurbach, who holds the world indoor record with a heave of 68 feet, 11 inches in San Francisco two weeks ago, is considered a heavy favorite.

Randy Matson, the holder of the outdoor record of 71 feet, 5½ inches, won't be competing here. That leaves Washington State University's John Vanreenan as Feurbach's nearest rival. Vanreenan has been heaving the shot two and three feet behind Feurbach so far this season.

Other entrants in the Seattle meet include Kerry Pearce, holder of the indoor two-mile mark; Henry Szordykowski, Andrzej Badenski and Andrzej Kupczyk, Polish distance stars; Steve Prefontaine, the University of Oregon's distance ace, and pole vaulter Francois Francanelli of UCLA.

MATSON'S RIVAL

FOR WORTH, Tex. (UPI)—World champion Randy Matson meets archrival Al Feurbach in the shot put event tonight in opening action of the two-night Fort Worth Coaches Indoor Games.

Feurbach, a newcomer from Emporia (Kan.) State, has only beaten Matson one time in four meets this winter, but in that one at San Francisco he set a world indoor record of 68 feet 11 inches.

Matson, the Texas veteran of two Olympics who holds the outdoor shot record of 71-5½, will not compete with Feurbach Saturday in Seattle.

Wills is top skip

LOS ANGELES

(UPI)—Los Angeles Dodgers shortstop Maury Wills, functioning as a minor league manager for the first time in his career, has been voted the manager of the year in the Mexican Pacific League, the Dodgers reported today.

Wills, who has played in the major league for a dozen years, led the Hermosillo team to first place in the second part of a split season. His team and Los Mochis are involved in a playoff to determine the league champion.

When his playing days are over, Wills said he would like to be a manager.

Eligibles' Qualifications

Most Admired . . . in Sports?

By IRA BERKOW

NEW YORK—(NEA)—The Gallup Poll came out with its 10 Most Admired Men and the group is distinguished for its body odor. Not a one of them sweats. Not one is an athlete.

The list, from top to bottom, reads: President Nixon, Rev. Billy Graham, Sen. Edward Kennedy, Spiro Agnew, Pope Paul, Sen. Edmund Muskie, Lyndon Johnson, Ronald Reagan, Hubert Humphrey and Harry Truman.

Taking nothing away from any of those on the current list, it must be considered, nonetheless, that the world of sport has many who are qualified. Following is a personal list of 10 most eligible sports figures to choose from:

JOE (The Greek) NAMATH, whose modesty was overwhelmingly demonstrated to a national television audience before the Super Bowl game. Two Super Bowls ago, Joe "guaranteed" that his team, the Jets, would win. They did. This time, he was not playing in the game so could not assure victory for either team. Forced to make a prediction, he said Baltimore would win by a field goal.

ROGER STAUBACH, for his restraint during the Super Bowl game. He is the second-string quarterback for Dallas. He plays behind Craig Morton, who has a bad arm, whose coach calls his plays, and who did not do so terrific in the big game. Staubach did not play and, most important, did not strangle his coach, Tom Landry.

WOODY HAYES, college educator, for his sense of history. Upon landing with his Ohio State troops on the Pasadena mainland for the War of the Roses, he said how proud he was to be in the birthplace of his idol, Gen. George S. Patton. Despite this, his team was upset by Stanford. He left without thanking anybody.

DAVEY FELD, for his perseverance. He was scheduled to referee the Floyd Patterson-Charlie Green fight last September in Madison Square Garden, but both contestants refused to enter the ring because of his "incompetence." Feld began to climb into the ring anyway but was hauled off by the security force, kicking, screaming and biting. No one since Harold Stassen has tried so vigorously to gain employment.

GORDIE HOWE, for being a stand-up guy. The Red Wings' superstar initially turned down an invitation to play in his 22nd NHL All-Star game, saying, "I don't deserve it. . . Besides, if I went I'd just sit."

JOHN BRODIE, for his mother wit. When the 49ers' quarterback was asked why a $1 million property like himself should still hold for the kicker, he replied, "Because if I didn't, the ball would fall down."

DENNY McLAIN, the organist, for being so human.

Pope Paul VI

Billy Graham

Spiro Agnew

Willie Mays

Joe Namath

Woody Hayes

When it was discovered that he had also tried to be a bookmaker and lost money, he said, "Am I the only SOB who ain't perfect?"

TONY ROCHE, for his sanitary habits. After Ken Rosewall beat him in the Forest Hills finals last September, he said, "That's what happens when you do muscles a favor. I did his laundry for him yesterday and look what he does to me." From the laundry, Roche was taken to the cleaners.

WILLIE MAYS, for his omniscience, when he told Jim Bouton that "I didn't read your book, and I'm not going to read your book, but I'll tell you what is wrong with it."

JIM BOUTON, Renaissance man who is now a sports TV announcer, for his adherence to protocol. He was appalled when Houston Astro outfielder Jim Wynn was recently stabbed by Wynn's wife on their seventh anniversary. Said Bouton on TV: "Didn't Mrs. Wynn realize that on a seventh anniversary you give copper, not steel?"

Petrie outduels Maravich

By United Press International

Pete Maravich got all the money and publicity but Geoff Petrie may still be the best rookie guard in the National Basketball Association.

The two rookies met in head-to-head competition Thursday night and Petrie was the clear winner as he helped the Portland Trail Blazers record a 137-123 victory over the Atlanta Hawks.

Petrie, a Princeton graduate who's been hitting better than 22 points a game this season, tossed in 24 points and held Maravich, the all-time college scoring champ from Louisiana State, to just 13. Petrie hit 11 of 20 shots while Maravich, who signed for close to $2 million, connected on only 6-of-18.

Leroy Ellis had 27 points and 17 rebounds to lead the Blazers. Walt Bellamy led Atlanta with 32 points and 19 rebounds.

In the only other scheduled NBA action Thursday night, Nate Thurmond scored 30 points and Joe Ellis and Jerry Lucas had 24 each as the San Francisco Warriors beat the Phoenix Suns 117-105.

Connie Hawkins was high man for the Suns with 26 points.

Warriors hot

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI)—The San Francisco Warriors, riding high on a five-game winning streak, continue their chase tonight in the National Basketball Association Pacific Division.

The Warriors, who trail Los Angeles by two games, meet the Portland Trail Blazers—who are on a mini-streak of their own. San Francisco picked up a half game Thursday night on idle Los Angeles by whipping Phoenix on its home court, 117-105.

Meanwhile, the expansion Trail Blazers throttled Pete Maravich and the Atlanta Hawks, 137-123, for their second straight game over an established NBA club.

Center Nate Thurmond played one of his better games against the Suns, dumping in 30 points with 12 of 22 from the floor. Joe Ellis and Jerry Lucas each scored 24 and Jeff Mullins added 23.

The Warriors face a tough weekend schedule, returning home after tonight's game to meet the Milwaukee Bucks Saturday in the Oakland Coliseum and then traveling to Los Angeles Sunday to battle the Lakers.

Kapp worst golfer

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI)—Joe Kapp is the worst golfer here.

He says so himself, and if you know Joe Kapp you know he's one of those guys who always tells the truth.

He can be wrong, though. Hank Aaron, the Atlanta Braves' superstar, hasn't played golf in eight years and has been assigned a 27 handicap here, the same as Joe Kapp, for the $30,000 American Airlines Astrojet Classic, in which 66 top baseball and football personalities begin hacking away Friday.

Tommie Agee, the New York Mets' centerfielder, and Don Maynard, the New York Jets' receiver, have been given maximum 27 handicaps also, but Joe Kapp still believes he's the poorest golfer in the whole bunch.

ARNOLD PALMER'S form, even blasting out of a sandtrap, will never be confused with the golf styles of Joe Kapp and Hank Aaron.

"I don't really care," says the 32-year-old quarterback for the Boston Patriots who has become the subject of wide conjecture now that they've come up with young Jim Plunkett as the nation's

Hilo High Queen named Norman

HILO, Hawaii (UPI)—The newly-elected homecoming queen at Hilo High School is a shot-putter on the track squad and an end for the football team.

Norman Wessel, a 17-year-old senior, entered the competition as a joke with the backing of some of his friends.

But the tall athlete's campaign caught fire and he swept by five female contenders for the title.

Wessel said students are tired of the same old thing every year.

HEADS FIELD

CARACAS

(UPI)—Roberto de Vicenzo of Argentina will head the field of 96 pros from eight nations in the $20,000 GM Open beginning here Thursday. The event offers a $7,000 prize to the winner.

No. 1 draft choice. "Most of the other guys have come here to try to win money. I've come here for only one reason. To have fun. Nobody's having more fun than me."

Joe Kapp, as usual, is telling the truth.

He's not letting his marvelous golf game bug him, he's not letting Jim Plunkett bug him, he's not letting all this talk about the Patriots trading him bug him, and he's not even letting world conditions bug him.

"One day there'll be justice," he says, covering any or all of those foregoing problems. "Migratory workers, for example, are getting the short end of the stick now, but someday there will be justice."

Fine, but what about Heisman Trophy winner Jim Plunkett coming to Boston advertised as "the best quarterback since Joe Namath?"

"There's no question in my mind he'll make it," Joe Kapp says about 23-year-old Jim Plunkett, who'll probably meet with the Patriots to talk money sometime next week.

"He's gonna be a great football player. How do I know? I've watched him. Being a Chicano, part-Mexican like I am, I've watched him closely. I'm proud of him. Very proud. A lot of people keep asking me who's gonna be number one,

LUTHER WINS

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Luther Lassiter, colorful three-time former world champion from Elizabeth City, N.C., fighting back after suffering one defeat, scored his second win Thursday night in the $40,000 World's Three-in-One Pocket Billiards Championships.

me or him? That makes me laugh. I'm not going to camp with the idea of beating one of my teammates. I'm going there with the idea of beating the opposition."

Kapp tried once more to get his feelings across. He tried hard.

"I think people get caught up to much in 'who's gonna be number one?'" he said.

"We gotta win right now; we can't wait anymore. He's got time. I ain't got time. I don't just wanna go to the Super Bowl. I wanna win the Super Bowl. That's my aim. That's what I live for."

THINK ABOUT IT!
BY BOB LILLEY

Ever had a yen to be a "LITTLE OLD WINE MAKER"? People in that business say there is a terrific demand for varietal grapes — and consequently a demand for more acres to grow the happy fruit. Lompoc Valley and the lower Santa Ynez appear to qualify by climate, water and soil for vineyards. We can see it now — row upon row of vines tilling our broad valley, and some guy on horse back riding down the rows singing at the top of his voice! Anyway we are investigating and we will let you know more later.

Happiness Is . . . a Lucky Putt

Johnny Bench: High on Grass-- To Play on Only, Not to Smoke

By BUCKY ALBERS

NEW YORK—(NEA)—The site was Da Nang in Vietnam.

A sea of American soldiers focused its attention on two heroes from back home.

Comedian Bob Hope, master of the one-liners, looked at Johnny Bench, a master of the line drive.

"Do you have any hobbies?" Hope asked.

"Yes, Bob," replied Bench. "I play baseball."

"Well, I guess that's a good hobby," Hope deadpanned. "Where else can you spend eight months a year on grass?"

The troops roared their approval.

In Vietnam, just as on college campuses and other spots where young people gather, grass isn't something you mow. It's something you smoke.

And Uncle Sam's boys are, indeed, smoking it.

So common is the use of grass—or marijuana—that Hope built much of his humor around it on his recently completed Christmas visit with the troops.

"The jokes on grass really went over well," reports Bench, Cincinnati's brilliant young catcher. "Those kids loved them."

The 23-year-old Bench, however, doesn't plan to join his generation in its exploitation of marijuana or any other form of dope.

Some of his ancestors, who were Choctaw Indians, took an occasional drag on a peace pipe, but Bench insists that he'll never have anything to do with smoking—no matter what's being burned.

Bench is sympathetic with the pot-smoking soldiers, however.

"I can understand why they do it," he offered. "They're a long way from home, they're lonely and it's a lot easier to carry around than a can of beer."

Bench has made his decision, however.

"I've had opportunities to smoke pot," he pointed out. "I'll be at a party and someone will say, 'Aw, c'mon . . . just take a drag.' I never have. I think the guy who says 'No' is stronger than one who gives in."

"Sure, it's easy for them to pass the stuff around. But my feeling is this: don't let anybody make a decision for you—especially for somebody who's pushing the stuff."

Last year Bench socked 45 home runs, knocked in 148 runs and batted .293 to become the National League's youngest winner of the Most Valuable Player award.

And he didn't need any pep pills to do it.

"I hear all the talk about athletes using certain forms of dope. I can't say I've never seen any instances of it, but I think certain people have overemphasized it.

"When you're injured or something, they'll give you a pill to relieve the pain. It's like a big aspirin. And if you've got a bad ankle and the pill enables you to play, I don't see any problem."

"I've taken a few pills because of injury, but I've never had any after-effects from them. Of course, I didn't continue to use them for any long period of time. Generally, I try to stay out of the trainer's room."

Your Birthday

By Stella

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY

5—Born today, you have a marvelous sense of humor and an outstanding ability for using just the right colorful word at just the right moment. It would not be surprising were you to make a career for yourself out of your writing and public speaking interests, for it is along these lines that you find your greatest satisfaction, from the standpoint of both your own personal happiness in a responsive audience and in your joy over work well done.

Not one to allow any degree of false modesty, however, slight, to hold him back, you radiate self-confidence. Even so, it could not be said even by those who have no real affection for you that you are a conceited or self-satisfied person. You strive ever harder to achieve ever higher, more difficult-to-reach goals.

You think nothing of working harder and longer than your co-workers to attain aims set for yourself.

One who thrives on activity, you cannot be happy unless you are energetically engaged in projects that present you with a real challenge. Never an outsider looking in, you remain in the thick of all that is going on, taking from life every ounce that it has to offer. Regardless of how active you are, however, you have an ability to remain calm and mentally free.

To find what is in store for you tomorrow, select your birthday and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

Saturday, February 6
AQUARIUS (Jan. 21-Feb. 19)—An excellent day in the offing—in spite of morning difficulties. Results of last week's efforts show themselves.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 21)—Take care that legal matters do not take up more than their share of the day. You need time to be alone with family and friends.

ARIES (March 22-April 20)—Don't take early upsets to heart. If you place the right values on events, all should work to your advantage in the long run.

TAURUS (April 21-May 21)—A morning without

BUS SEPARATION

LONDON (UPI)—Bus driver Len Scholey and his wife have been separated — by a one-man bus.

He and his wife, Lillian, a conductor, were known as one of the happiest crew at London transport's Brixton garage.

But the gradual replacement of two-man buses by vehicles only requiring a driver has split the couple.

"It's awfully lonely, especially at night," Scholey said. "I have to have my tea break by myself and there is no one to talk to between runs."

ZODY By MARV MYERS

"My birthday's today: Aquarius—highly compatible with Gemini, Libra, Leo, Sagittarius, Aries and receptionists!"

prearranged scheduling of the hours could end in shambles. Take care that order does not fall into confusion.

GEMINI (May 22-June 21)—Unnecessary purchases must not be allowed to damage the budget irreparably. Keep a firm hand on your impulses.

CANCER (June 22-July 23)—You seem today to be possessed of the touch that makes all things turn out well. A good day for pursuing special interests.

LEO (July 24-Aug. 23)—It's not the knowing how that counts so much today, it's the knowing when and why. Be sure everyone is talking about the same thing.

VIRGO (Aug. 24-Sept. 23)—Make sure your frame of reference is in line with the one you're trying to deal with. Otherwise, failure results.

LIBRA (Sept. 24-Oct. 23)—Anything of importance should be double-checked this morning. You may find that you must delete something from your schedule.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)—Activities requiring a great deal of concentration should be avoided this morning. Take care, too, not to make important decisions.

Environmental responsibility

Efforts to pin distinct responsibility for the environmental protection of our city were stalled this week by the City Council when a proposal by Councilman E.C. Stevens for the creation of an environmental commission was held for further study.

Councilman Stevens proposal would elevate in stature the present City Beautification Committee to commission status charged with responsibility to the taxpayers to "develop and maintain a high quality environment now and in the future, and to protect, rehabilitate and enhance the environmental quality of the Lompoc Valley."

The City's beautification committee is an outgrowth of a Chamber of Commerce committee. It fell under the city's wing for the purpose of securing federal funds for beautification projects, an action the city could not take without such a committee.

The committee, at the beginning, took their duties seriously and proposed many actions which would have resulted in a better looking community. Unfortunately, procrastination and perhaps even disinterest on the part of the city disheartened committee members to such an extent that it is even difficult now to get the body to meet with a quorum.

Stevens' intention is that with new commission stature, the city governing body must listen, just as they listen and act upon planning commission and parks and recreation commission recommendations and actions.

A special committee now will study the proposal and a further suggestion that the city planning commission be enlarged to accommodate the environmental expertise.

Our policy of opposing burgeoning bureaucracy by creation of new commissions and bodies still stands. Planning Commission judgments, all of them, have relationship to environment — from the granting of a setback to the approval of a subdivision. It would well be worth the study of commission enlargement to fix, definitely, responsibility for environmental control of the community.

USO turns 30

The United States Organization, Inc., best known by its initials USO, marks the 30th anniversary of its founding on Feb. 4.

More than 25 million Americans who have worn their country's uniform since the beginning of World War II have been served by the USO. Today the organization is still serving the troops at more than 50 points overseas and in 125 communities in the United States.

At a USO club or lounge, a serviceman may relax, write letters, enjoy television, radio or records. He can get tickets to sports events, plays and movies or help in housing or personal problems.

In addition, more than 1,000 USO - sponsored entertainers annually give some 8,000 performances to audiences totalling more than seven million servicemen.

The USO receives no financial support from the government but is maintained by voluntary contributions primarily from the United Fund, Community Chest and other independent campaigns.

Favorable reaction

The city council's reaction to several potential problems this week was reassuring.

The major item of course, was the order for a moratorium on capital expenditures and the hiring of new personnel until certain financial reports were submitted to the council, but less significant decisions are also worthy of comment.

Members of two of the city's employe associations expressed disapproval of a change in the personnel rules that will limit most employees to living within a 20 minute drive from the city.

The rule is being changed from one that ordered employees to live within the city limits. No one complained about that one.

Now that they will be allowed to live outside the city limits if they so desire, some employees are concerned for their right to freedom

The more liberal rule would probably have never come about had not the state legislature moved to prohibit cities from ordering employees to live within the city.

The time limit is set to insure that employees have the ability to reach their jobs within a given length of time in the event they are called in an emergency.

A spokesman for the employees said they actually intend to continue living within the city, they just didn't want such a restriction in writing. It was also mentioned that in private business most employees do not face such an order.

Councilman George. Cotsenmoyer was the first to react to the employees' disapproval and he stated he had no sympathy for an employee's lack of loyalty or support for his employer.

It was also noted that many private firms have even more stringent restrictions on their employees.

It could be added that, although public employees certainly have the right to pay and benefits equal to private industry, they still are employees of a public entity and their living and working conditions should be so regulated for the benefit of the people they serve.

This should be understood at the time of employment and if not acceptable then other employment sought.

Concerning another incident regarding the personnel rules, one councilman suggested a change that would force the city administrator to get the approval of the council prior to giving an employee a meritorious pay raise.

Mayor Art Scott was quick to point out that such action would take away what is basically a routine duty of the city administrator, discussed and decided upon by a previous city council many years ago.

It would seem inconceivable, as noted by the mayor, that the city administrator would possess the power to routinely hire and fire personnel but that he not have the authority to award a minor pay raise to an employee who has accomplished his duty in an extraordinary manner.

World annihilation

WASHINGTON—You sit staring at your typewriter and you ask yourself how you can make the most vital subject in the world at least partly intelligible. How to break through the shopworn expressions, the barrier of secrecy? How to convey some sense of urgency?

The subject is nuclear arms control and disarmament and, as the days and the weeks slip by with no apparent progress, the hope of any limitation seems to the eye of the outside observer to be all but vanished. The session of the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT) tend to be reported as a kind of nuclear basketball game.

They're ahead, we're behind, we're ahead. Insofar as the outsider can piece it together, the current critical stage developed as follows.

At Helsinki in late 1969 the United States delegation put on the table a comprehensive plan for the limitation of both offensive and defensive missiles. The Russians asked a number of questions as they continued to do at Vienna in 1970.

But they did not give any real response. It became known, however, that the Russians had slowed the deployment of the SS-9, the giant missile that was America's chief worry.

Vienna I ended in stalemate. Then at Helsinki II, two and a half weeks before Christmas, the Russians put on the table a proposal to limit antiballistic missiles to protection of the two capitals, Washington and Moscow. This was a clear-cut limited proposition.

But time was running out and apparently the U.S. delegation had no contingency plan which might have made at least a tentative response possible. So far as is known, no answer has yet been formulated, and Vienna II is only six weeks away.

This can become a public controversy. Editorialists and others are already asking why such a limited agreement would not be at least a step away from the multibillion-dollar arms race. The public demand for some form of ABM agreement promises to grow louder in Congress and in public opinion.

The resistance comes from the Pentagon whether with the sanction, or at any rate the tolerance, of the White House no one can say. The White House and the Pentagon won a great victory after a furious battle when the Senate, with five votes to spare, approved Phase II of the antiballistic missile program. That meant construction of four protective missiles at four Minuteman sites in four states. The Pentagon goal is 12 at a cost of well over $12 billion.

To agree to the Russian proposal would mean scrapping the four sites, on two of which construction is progressing, as well as the overall program. It would surrender the Pentagon conviction that U.S. offensive missiles must be protected against a Soviet first strike.

As the game is played in Washington the Pentagon almost always scores. At the crisis point with the time running out in the quest for a decision on how to respond to the Russian offer the Pentagon comes out with a convenient leak. The Defense Department has urged the White House to back an ABM defense for Washington as well as the four sites in the west. That is what is called putting the ball in the opposition's court.

The Pentagon goes right on scoring. According to the latest count, 50 Minutemen-2 have been converted to Minutemen-3 by adding multiple independently targeted warheads (MIRV). This means a stepup of from three to seven times in nuclear striking power. The conversion of Polaris missiles to Poseidons by the same MIRVs—adjustable up to 10—was delayed by a strike so that only one submarine is deployed with 16 Poseidons. But spring will see a wholesale conversion to Poseidons with a range up to 2,800 miles.

No sky-born inspection is possible once the warheads are locked into a missile. That means agreement on abolishing or limiting this newest round of weaponry is all but out. The Pentagon would fight to the last ditch before sacrificing such a big jump ahead.

MIRV, ABM, SALT—this is the language of the professionals. For the uninitiated it conveys little of what the game means in billions spent on a mythical "defense" or on the ultimate test, if it comes to that, or mutual annihilation.

A birthday

If you want to feel old today, recall that the United Services Organization started 30 years ago this month.

More commonly known as the USO, despite what many may think, it is still in existence and still doing the same, excellent job it did 30 years ago when it was started.

We remember the USO most vividly when we were in Africa. God knows we needed something like that in Africa. As a GI, we do know that it was the only place you could see a real, honest to goodness American girl outside of an Army nurse in a GI tent. And, as did many, we were a frequent, ogling visitor.

We also recall one USO very vividly. It was in Constantine, Algeria. Constantine is a very, very old town. Half of the old town was "casbah" area — dark, narrow streets filled with Arabs, donkeys, vegetable stands and barbecue pits. The stench was unbearable.

The "casbah" area was completely off limits to GIs for obvious reasons. The USO was located in a very large, stone building at the edge of the "casbah." In fact, from the rear windows of the USO structure, one could look out on the "casbah."

There wasn't much to offer in the USO. They had a couple of ping pong tables, some U.S. magazines and other reading material, writing tables, a dart game, couches for lounging and a few other items to make things comfortable. We remember most importantly that it was the only place in that part of Africa one could get a Coca Cola.
